speak of an individual being a degenerate, what do you mean? I know what the word means, but it seems to have been given a special signification by some recent writers." This correspondent probably refers to Nordau, whose works on the tendencies to degeneration in members of the human family have excited no little attention, to say nothing of pointed criticism. The author, however, has been either much misunderstood or much overrated, because his works have been rather disappointing than otherwise. More than one critic has pointed to them as proof of Nordau's own degeneracy. The doctrine that genius is closely akin to insanity, if not a result of it, is not only very old and popular, but it is generally accepted by scientists.. Of course, the insanity referred to consists in an unbalanced condition rather than in a diseased or perverted condition of mind. It were better to speak of its eccentricity instead of insanity. The latter signifies a sick or unhealthy condition; and the unusual phenomena accompanying it show the individual to be suffering from some disorder which preverts the senses, unbalances reason and deranges the function of the mind generally. Genius, however, indicates an over-development of certain faculties, rather than perversion

Strictly speaking, a degenerate is one born below the standard of his parents. either physically, mentally or morally. Anything is said to degenerate when it falls below that which generates it. The term also applies to individuals who fall below the standards of health, intefligence and culture established by their families. It is in this sense that a member of a temperate, prosperous family, who becomes intemperate and profligate. is spoken of as a degenerate. In times past, and quite largely even now, the conduct of such persons has been ascribed to willful neglect of duty, or indifference to parental instruction and advice. This view of the matter has been steadily losing adherents for half a century, perhaps, but of late the loss has become quite noticeable, especially among those who accept science as a

In the make-up of every individual who becomes a drunkard, or a victim of any vice, there must be some peculiar tendency. Were it not so, everyone would go the same way. This tendency may be due to physical or to mental, or moral, degeneracy. Nearly all admit moral degeneracy in such cases, and many concede mental perversion, but it is only in recent years that physical disease or degeneracy has been admitted as a factor in the equation. The fact that its admission has rendered possible the MISS MARY L MADDEN-Fashionable solution of the problem that has puzzled physicians, metaphysicians, scientists and sociologists so long, fully justifies it in its new place. Until it was admitted and allowed its full value there were no cures for the disease. Now the unknown quantity in equation—the cure—can be readily determined. . . .

That individuals who have degenerated physically, mentally and morally until they no longer have any social standing, have been restored to physical, mental and moral health, is conclusive proof that the problem has been properly solved. It is the application of the old rule for proving the correctness of answers to arithmetical problems, which was to work them backwards. There are to-day tens of thousands of men and women enjoying health of mind, body and soul, who were regarded a few years phine habits, and helpless moral degen-" erates. Physical disease is an important factor in general degeneration.

He was said to be unusual cause of action. The plaintiff | a nephew of the late Rev. John Dennis. claimed that for the past nine years her of Rochester. Hodson's father, a Methtime and attention had been monopolized by a young man who had courted her and kept company with her steadily to the exclusion of all other gentlemen. At the end of nine years the young man explained that he never contemplated matrimony, but was "merely trying to enjoy life while he went along." Thereupon, mira, on Fox street. He was well liked the object of his monopolistic devotion brought suit for $10,000 for the time she had wasted and the services she had rendered. The jury gave her half the amount she demanded. Not knowing the principals in this case, I am not in a position to speak positively on the justice of this verdict, but there can be no or she wouldn't have flown.

Not Completed.

It Began at Addison Friday, But Was Addison, N. Y., Jan. 4.-Since the closing of the bank of James Baldwin & awaited with interest for the examination of the surviving member of the firm, James Baldwin. The hearing, which was postponed three times, finally began yesterday morning, 💥 the office of D. M. Darrin, who acted as counsel for Mr. Baldwin. The referee, who was appointed by Judge Rumsey, was W. J. Tully, of Corning. Hon. J. Foster Parkhurst, of Bath, was the attorney for the creditors of the Weatherbee estate, who claim to hold an execution against the firm to the amount of $10,600. The only witness heard was James Baldwin, who recited the history of the firm since their first organization. He testified to the correctness of the liabilities and assets, as shown in the statement of Mr. Hinman, the cashier. The, total liabilities are $81,202.58, while the total assets amount to $112,524.53. Of the assets $44,600 is in real estate; bills discounted, $59,542.38, and overdrafts $8,382.15. From this, it will be seen that the bank can pay all the obligations, if the securities can be realized upon. Business has been suspended, as related last Sunday, and it is thought that the outcome of the examination will be the appointment of a receiver to close up the business as speedily as possible. Mr. Baldwin stated that, although the bank had carried on business Inder the firm name of James Baldwin & Co., there had never been any articles of co-partnership made in writing between Henry Baldwin, Sarah Weatherbee and himself. In fact, he said, no agreement had ever been placed in writing between his brother and himself until October 21, 1895, when It was agreed that the management was to be transferred to Colonel Henry Baldwin, who was to adjust the business. An oral agreement to this effect was made October 5, 1895, and placed in writing on the date mentioned above. It was their intention to close up the business, but before this was done the death of Colonel Henry Baldwin occurred, and the affairs of the bank were then left upon the hands of James Baldwin. The deceased member of the firm owned considerable real estate, consisting of several farms in Tioga county, Pa., a saw and grist mill at Woodhull, some lots along Lake Keuka, a farm at Lindley, a farm at Rathbone and some property in Addison. The majority of this he bequeathed to relatives named in his will. The witness testified that he took no money from the bank since the first order from Judge Rumsey was served upon him, but that he had received moneys at the counter up to the time the second order was served on him. The proceedings were adjourned for two weeks, to take place

A Bath Young Man, Who Formerly Lived in Eimira.

Bath, N. Y., Jan. 4.-Last Sunday morning about 8 o'clock, Francis Hodson, who has been in the employ of C. A. William Piper saw the man acted strangely, and with the assistance of some other gentlemen. carried Hodson into his (Piper's) house, and sent for Drs. Pauling and Crittenden. The man was found to be suffering from alcoholism. He was beyond all hope when the physicians arrived, and never regained consciousness. He died about 8 o'clock Sunday night. A to Ulysses, Coudersport and Port Allewhistle up the river announced the ap- gany. Co., the depositors and creditors have proach of the train, and as she came slowly up to the station, even the powerful iron steed seemed to feel the interest manifested on this joyful occasion. On the train were a goodly number of passengers and prominent officials of the Buffalo & Susquehanna system, which now is 112 miles, besides nearly as many miles of lumber road feeders and sidings. The train was quickly turned for the return trip and was soon speeding on its way up the Genesee. It was drawn by a powerful Baldwin passenger locomotive, No. 123, with William Darbyshire at the throttle, and F. Holmes fireman. The train was composed of a combination mail, express and baggage car, gentleman's car and a day coach, all new, heated by steam from the locomotive, and with every modern convenience. It was in charge of Conductor M. E. Northam; S. C. Stambough, trainman, and Al. Corlson baggagemaster, trusted employes of the 'road. On the train were Vice-President and Manager F. H. Goodyear, H. Hutchinson, trainmaster; W. C. Park, roadmaster; Mr. Campbell, master mechanic, and W. I. Lewis, resident president and attorney. At Wellsville they were joined by John McEwen, W. B. Coats, W. C. Farnum and Charles E. Davis, former officials and directors of the W. C. & P. C. railroad, and newspaper representatives of the Buffalo Express, Wellsville Daily Reporter and the Telegram representative as guests of President Goodyear, on the initial trip. On board were: Messrs. J. H. Brown and George C. Rosa, of this city; Contractor F. Graco, Bradford, and Colonel William Dent, of Brookland, and W. C. Grover, of Newfield, and many prominent citizens along the line. The train ran along as smoothly over the new road as any old trunk line, and the run to Ansonia was made on the schedule time. Returning to Galeton, 'busses were in waiting and the party taken to the Edgecomb hotel, where a sumptuous repast had been arranged for by the hospitality of Mr. Goodyear. , This part of the programme was greatly enjoyed, and all agreed that although the newspaper men were the smallest in statue their stomachs were of the greatest capacity. The return to this city was made on fast time, and as we alighted we found a large crowd on the platform awaiting the arrival of the train. It is a scenic and quick route to points on the Fall Brook road to Williamsport, and connections of great importance locally, as it opens to our trade a new; and enterprising country, whose residents will take advantage of the many facilities

C. & P. C., which passed into the hands of the Buffalo & Susquehanna on September 1, and this was thoroughly rebuilt with new iron bridges, etc., under the supervision of Civil Engineer H. Herdon. It is a fine road-bed, and runs very smoothly. Leaving Wellsville our people are conversant with the road to Perryville. Soon after leaving West Bingham the road ascends to Cutler Summit, the highest point reached, which is nearly 2,500 feet above the level-of the sea, and 1,000 feet higher than our city, and it is the highest railroad elevation in the state of Pennsylvania. Descending the other side the road goes down the side hill on a grade of 147 feet to the

THAT LAND CASE.

Hornellsville Men Expect to Win Out-Mayor Collin Interested.

Hornellsville, N. Y., Jan. 4 .- On May 27; last, Judge Davy, siting as supreme court judge at Rochester, granted an order upon application of Charles A.Bird and others, as owners of a large tract of land in the Englewood district, at Buffalo, through their attorneys, Messrs. Dolson, appointing Jerry E. B. Santee, of this city, as receiver of the company. Pending the decision of the action of certain proceeds theretofore paid into the hands of the defendant, Edwin H. Lanphear, and also of a mortgage upon one six-acre block of the land in question, conditioned for the payment of $9,520 or the proceeds thereof, if the same had been disposed of by one of the defendants, Earl M. Lanphear, mortgagee or assignee of said mortgage. It was further ordered that Edward H. Lanphear pay over to the said receiver the proceeds of the said mortgage within ten days after the serving of the order. From this order both the Lanphears appealed to the general term of the supreme court in this judicial district. On December 26, the general term, Judges Bradley, Lewis and Adams, handed down a decision, confirming Judge Davy's order in all respects. with costs, and the Messrs Lanphear will now be obliged to pay over to Receiver Santee something like $12,000, which will remain in his hands until the decision in the suit of Bird and others against the Lanphears and Arthur C. Tadder is decided. This legal victory is very gratifying to the members of the land company, and, in their opinion, is simply a sample of what is to follow in the action soon to be tried for the recovery of this large sum of money wheren E. H. Lanphear received as commissions upon the purchase and sale of twenty acres of land, the actual purchase price of which was $32,000. Frederick Collin, of Elmira, is associated; with Messrs Dolson & Dolson, in the conduct of the case for the land com-

Society in many places, and especially that portion of it which may be termed "college society," is just now on the qui vive of expectancy, pending the arrival of the Cornell College Mandolin club. This club is famous for its thorough organization and real, genuine artistic merit. Its musical head is a Chicago boy, W. S. Goll. This is his second year as leader, and he has brought the club to a degree of perfection seldom attained by even professional mandolin players. The exquisite shading of the music rendered by this club, combined with the perfect tone in the soft and delicate passages can hardly be improved upon. Especially is this so in the selection, "Love's Dream After the Bail." The mandolin club consists of mandolins and guitars, and the combination is classical, or will one day be so considered from Verdi's having employed it in "Otello" for the serenade addressed to Desdemont on her arrival in the Island of Cyprus. E. Welling Wyckoff, of Elmira, is manager of the club, which will appear in this city, at the Lyceum, in the near future.

Charles I. Peck played a lively part in a performance of the "Octoroon" company in Cleveland, O., a short time ago. A crazy man jumped upon the stage from the audience during the second act and began to push and haul the performers around in a manner that was not to their liking. Charlie is stage manager, and seeing the disturbance, grabbed the man by the collar and ejected him from the house.

La Shelle & Clark, managers of the Frank Daniels Comic Opera company, have succeeded in cancelling enough of their out of town dates to enable them to continue "The Wizard of the Nile" at the Casino. New York, further than the time set for it, which was until January. The Boston and Philadelphia engagements, however, could not be postponed, and, as a consequence, this unusual success, which might easily run out the season there, and possibly the summer as well, will be comcelled to terminate its brilliant New York run in season to play these cities. The business throughout the usually lethargic period preceding the holidays has been unprecedented at the Casino.

NERVES AND THUMBS. Observation of a Person's Thumbs Will Indicate His Nervous State.

"When I went to a nerve specialist first," said a man who was once an invalid, "he told me that one way to judge of the condition of a person's nerves was to watch his thumbs. Ever since that time I have found the greatest fascination in looking at people's thumbs. The doctor said that if they moved involuntarily outward it was a sign that the nerves of that man or woman were not in the best condition. I find myself now sweeping the line opposite me in a car, and if that doctor's test is a good one there is a surprising number of people in this town whose nerves need looking, after. There are few among the women who do not involuntarily move the thumbs out at intervals of every few minutes, and when your attention has been once attracted to it the process of watching their gloved hands grows very interesting. I have found the habit much less frequent among men, but take the average number of women in a street car and it will be a surprise to you to see how many of them indulge unconsciously in this little habit. I only hope it does not mean anything as serious as it might indicate if that nerve specialist's diagnosis was a good one."

HIS FAMILY BUTCHERED.

Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 4.-Great sympathy is felt here for one of the Armenian students in the seminary. He left his parents, wife and little ones, in Malatea, Turkey, when he came to Auburn, and ever since the massacres began he has been unable to hear from them and has been nearly distracted with suspense. Finally a letter came on New Year's day. It was from his father, his sole surviving relative. Four of his family were butchered. His father wrote: "I have no home, no money, nothing to eat, nothing to wear." The son, nearly crazed with grief, is now tramping the state trying to sell a few wares to earn money to send to his destitute father.
